SATURDAY EVENING. JAN. 15, 1919.

The Wonderful Camel. When the nature of the work performed by the camel is considered it is perhaps its very somnolent organization which best fits it for that work and which gives color to the accusations of laziness and stupidity made against it. It can live on a diet as appetizing as "a green umbrella," to use Sir Samuel Baker's words. Barren, leafless twigs, dried shrubs and the tough, paperlike substances of the dome palm form the chill courses in the menu prepared by nature for this denizen of the desert. The marvelous arrangement for the retaining of a supply of water sufficient to last for many days makes the camel's powers of endurance phenomenal. The ordinary freight camel is expected to carry a load of from 500 to 1,000 pounds across the desert at the rate of twenty-five miles a day and to keep it up for three days without a fresh supply of water. Some will cover fifty miles a day for five days without water, and the swifter species will carry their riders 100 miles a day.-London Spare

Moments.

The Humming Bird's Flight. The flight of the little humming bird is more remarkable than that of the eagle. We can understand the flapping of the eagle's immense wing supporting a comparatively light body. But our little bird has a plump body. His wings are not wide, but long, so he must move them rapidly to sustain his weight, and this he can do to perfection. The vibrations of his wings are so rapid as to make them almost invisible. He can use them to sustain himself in midair, with his body as motionless as if perched on a twig. In this way he can sip the nectar of the delicate, fine stemmed flowers without alighting for a moment. He never alights while so engaged. He moves from flower to flower with a graceful and rapid movement, sometimes chasing away a bee or humming bird moth, of which he is very jealous. Nor is he much more favorably impressed with any small birds that seem in his way. He knows his power of flight, and he has no fear of any other bird .- St. Nicholas.

A Garrick Incident. The picture of Garrick in the witness box, tongue tied and smothered with confusion, is an amazing one, for Garrick where speaking was concerned was the pride of London. Members of parliament envied him his powers. Burke envied him. There is that instance in parliament when during a heated debate a member moved that the gallery be cleared. This was ordered to be done, and the strangers withdrew, all save Garrick. Still the member objected. Then up spake Burke. Would it be fair to exclude from their debate the master of eloquence, the genius who taught them the art of speaking? he demanded. For himself he was proud to acknowledge his indebtedness to Garrick. Fox folshend. The house then voted that the "stranger should remain." And Garrick did not budge!-St. James' Ga-

Mexican Tidbits. Water bugs and worms are among the tidbits in which the Mexican peon delights. He catches his bugs as they skim along the top of fresh water ponds, drying them and then eating them with as much zest as an American boy eats peanuts. As near as the peon can explain it, their flavor is something on the order of the chestnut, but as no white man has ever tried eating water bugs or, if he has, doesn't dare confess it, the exact taste of these Mexican morsels can't be described very accurately. The peons dote, too, on the nice fat pulque worm. This insect is about two inches long and half an inch thick. They fry the dainty in grease and pack it in brown paper packages of a dozen worms. which bring 2 cents a paper. An industrious pulque worm collector makes a good living .- New York World.

Turkey's Unit of Value.

In Turkey the unit of value is the piastre, which is divided into 40 paras, while the para is divided into 3 aspes. As the piastre is worth only 4.4 cents, the para is worth a little more than a tenth of a cent, and an aspe is worth a trifle over one twenty-seventh of a cent. When an American in Turkey wants to feel rich he goes forth and buys some 2,700 aspes, which he spends with lavish hand over the bargain counters of the oriental bazaars.

Live on what you have; live if you can on less. Do not borrow either for vanity or pleasure. The vanity will end in shame and the pleasure in regret.—Samuel Johnson.
